The genius of ancient Damascene houses

Beautifully intertwined houses usually narrate the originality of the old buildings and the genius of their makers. They summarise some of the characteristics of the old city of Damascus with all its cultural, historical and human heritage. Damascus old buildings have a unique style of architecture that astonishes everyone who visits it, so that it deserves its inclusion on the UNESCO World Heritage List.

This is how the French poet Lamartine described the city saying that there is a genius in Damascene architecture, "A people whose engineers appreciate the drawing of an edifice similar to Khan Asaad Pasha, and his workers are able to implement it, will not die in the field of arts," where we see enchanting pools of water filled with fragrant roses and green hanging canopies that soften the glow of the summer sun and heat. We also find the models clearly among the houses, where we see in the other corners architectural objects that appear like an umbrella to protect from the rain.

It seems that "the divisions and spaces in the Damascene house take into account the weather conditions during the seasons of the year, including the square, the liwan, the dawar, the boudoir, the hall, and others. Each element has its function that emerges from the need of the residents."

The old houses, with their elaborate construction, take the advantages of Damascene architecture in the simplest detail. Some people describe them as very accurate and well-made Syrian architecture, with a selection of decorative fashions, distinctive and appropriate at the same time, such as Khan Asaad Pasha and others.

These architectural and decorative creations go beyond all borders with the Arabic calligraphy, such as verses of poetry, proverbs or carvings in an elaborate handwriting found on the walls and ceilings. All these characteristics reflect the artistic flair, social traditions and the unity of the family prevalent in the city.

Grammar

Present Simple or Continuous

Present Simple

We use the Present Simple

- to talk about regular habits or repeated actions:
e.g. I get up really early and practise for an hour or so most days.
Words that describe how often or when are often used (e.g. always, generally, normally, usually, often, sometimes, rarely, never, every day, every evening).
- to talk about permanent situations:
e.g. My parents own a chalet.
- to talk about facts or generally accepted truths:
e.g. If you heat water to 100°C, it boils.
The following words are often used: generally, mainly, normally, usually, traditionally.
- to give instructions and directions:
e.g. You go down to the traffic lights, then you turn left.
- to tell stories and talk about films, books and plays:
e.g. In the film, the hero saves the people of his town.

Present Continuous

We use the Present Continuous

- to talk about temporary situations:
e.g. I'm studying really hard for my exams.

Words like at the moment, currently, now, this week / month / year are often used.

- to talk about actions happening at the moment of speaking:
e.g. I'm waiting for my friends.
- to talk about trends or changing situations:
e.g. The price of petrol is rising dramatically.
- to talk about things that happen more often than expected, often to show envy or to criticise with words like *always, constantly, continually, forever.
e.g. Dad's always saying I don't help enough!

State Verbs

The Present Continuous is not normally used with state verbs because the meaning of the verb itself is a general truth rather than something temporary. These verbs describes thoughts (agree, believe, think, remember, forget, understand, etc.), feelings (dislike, enjoy, feel, hate, love, mind, prefer, etc.), senses (hear, see, smell, taste), possessions (have, own, belong) and description (look, look like, seem, sound, etc.).

Note: Some state verbs can be used in the continuous form when the meaning is temporary.

e.g. What are you thinking about? (now)

I think you should tell her the truth. (my opinion, so not temporary) a Look at the following extracts and underline the tenses that the speakers used.

1. I'm wanting / want to do some sports activities.
2. Our tennis team are always looking / always look for new people.
3. Are members having to / Do members have to pay to use the pools?
4. We're not actually allowing / don't actually allow anyone to book the gym equipment.
5. What time is suiting / suits you?
6. Great, well, I'm thinking / think that's everything.

b Fill in the gaps with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- I'm busy right now. I'm filling in (fill in) an application form for a new job.
1. Be quiet! I (want) to hear the news.
 2. My tutor (see) me for a tutorial every Monday at five o'clock.
 3. John (not / study) very hard at the moment. I (not / think) he'll pass his exams.
 4. "What (he/do)?" "He (try) to fix the television aerial."

5. Numbers of wild butterflies (fall) as a result of changes in farming methods.
6. My friend Omar's parents (travel) round the world this summer, and probably won't be back for a couple of months.
7. The college (run) the same course every year.

Things You Can't Live Without?

Reading

a Before reading the text, match the words with their meanings.

- | | |
|--------------------|---|
| 1. part and parcel | a. a computer language used for producing pages that can be put on the internet |
| 2. announcement | b. an essential part of something |
| 3. HTML | c. to stop doing something |
| 4. confront | d. a small advertisement |
| 5. reliant | e. to deal with something very difficult |
| 6. abandon | f. dependent on someone or something |

Techie or Technophobe

Our smartphones, laptops, and other gadgets which we somehow cannot live without, have become a part and parcel of our lives. The technology is advancing every day, so is the number of people who love and care about it. What about you? Are you a techie or a technophobe?

On one hand, you may be considered a techie as a person who is skilled in the technical field and gets excited about it. Here are the signs that indicate you might be a techie: first of all, when you frequently check your phone or other devices updates, emails, news, etc.

This is a sign that you are obsessed with technology. Another thing is that you are curious about new tech announcements and want to know everything connected with updates in new technology. Mostly, you use or understand most vocabularies that are filled with tech terms such as "Bugs" or "HTML". Also, you are likely to work in a tech field or you own lots of gadgets or electronics. And above all, whether you are social and have many friends or not, you would prefer to spend your free time with your electronic devices.

On the other hand, you may be considered a technophobe as a person who does not like modern technology and is not able to use it with confidence. May be you experience anxiety when confronting a new piece of complicated device. Here are five signs that indicate you might be a technophobe:

1. You are amazed when someone shows you a new trick in a machine or device.
2. You throw away the instructions and forget how to use the basic settings.
3. You haven't bought anything new in years.
4. You never update the software of your devices.
5. You do not trust e-books and prefer physical books as they cannot be deleted.

In fact, every new change – from the page of a printed book to the touch screen – is met with opposition. Technology has forced us to become reliant on it, and it would not be a good decision if we thought of limiting our exposure to technology or absolutely abandoning it.

b Read the text and correct the following statements.

1. The development of technology is decreasing everyday and is considered out-of-date to many people.
2. A technophobe always downloads e-books on his/ her mobile.
3. A techie isn't keen on gadgets and hasn't bought anything new for years.
4. "Bugs" and "HTML" are well-known terms for a technophobe.
5. Every new change is welcomed by all people.

c After reading the text, do you consider yourself a techie or a technophobe? Explain.

A determiner is a word used in front of a noun to indicate whether you are referring to a specific thing or just to something of a particular type.

There are two types of determiners: specific determiners and general determiners.

Specific determiners:

You use specific determiners when the person you are talking to will know which person or thing you are referring to. The specific determiners are:

➤ the definite article: the e.g. The man began to run towards the boy.

➤ demonstratives: this, that, these, those e.g. How much is it for that big box?

Young people don't like these operas.

➤ possessive determiners: my, your, his, her, its, our, their e.g. I'd been waiting a long time to park my car.

Her face was very red.

General determiners:

You use general determiners when you are mentioning people or things for the first time, or talking about them generally without saying exactly which ones you mean. The general determiners are:

a	a few	a little	all	an	another	any	both	each	either	enough	every	few fewer	less	little	many	more	most	much	neither	no	other	several	some

There was a man in the lift.

You can stop at any time you like.

There were several reasons for this.

Solar energy is the key to a clean energy future. The sun gives off far more energy than we need to power everything on earth for billions of years. It is a renewable source of energy that can be harnessed to light homes, produce hot water, heat homes and produce electricity.

Limitless solar energy

The sun provides more than enough energy to meet the whole world's energy consumption needs, and unlike fossil fuels, it will not deplete anytime soon. As a renewable energy source, the only obstacle of solar power is our ability to transform it into electricity in an efficient and cost-effective way.

Clean source

No greenhouse gas emissions are released into the atmosphere when you use solar panels to create electricity. This is attributed to the fact that the sun provides more energy than we will ever need. Electricity from solar power is a very important energy source in the move to clean energy production.

No fuel to burn

After solar panels have been installed, operational costs are quite low compared to other forms of power production. Fuel is not required, and this means that solar power can create large amounts of electricity without the uncertainty and expense of securing a fuel supply.

Solar power and the environment

As a renewable CO₂-free power source, the environmental impact of solar energy is significantly smaller than other power generation methods. The impact is mainly related to the production and supply of the special materials and metals that are required to produce solar panels. The location and the water used to clean the solar panels also affect the environment. So, specialists are working hard to find alternative ways to clean the solar panels. Installation of the solar panels can be really costly; however, they are absolutely worth it. They are both energy as well as cost-efficient. All in all, they are a very wise and valuable investment.

b Answer the following questions about the text above.

1. How old is the solar energy?
2. What is the main worry about solar energy?
3. Why is the sun a clean energy resource?
4. What can solar energy be used for?

Energy Conservation Tips

There are many things you can do in your day-to-day life at home and at work to save as much wasted energy as you can.

There are some tips below that could help you save money and become more energy-efficient at the same time.

At Home

- Replace incandescent bulbs with energy-efficient compact fluorescent ones.

- Turn off TVs and lights when you leave the room or aren't using them.
- Boil water in a pot on the stove instead of using a kettle.
- Use smaller appliances such as the microwave or toaster instead of the oven.
- Take short showers instead of baths.
- Install dual-flow toilets to reduce the amount of water used per flush.

At Work

- Make sure all windows and doors are closed during off hours, and only open when necessary during open hours.
- Use sunlight instead of turning on the heat, where applicable and reduce air conditioner usage in summer.
- Open blinds and shades instead of turning on lights where you can.
- Use motion sensors for areas of your office to automate when lights shut off.
- Turn all computers and network peripherals off at the end of the day.
- Use energy-efficient devices and replace all screens with LCD/LED.
- Take part in a recycling program and make sure all lighting, appliances and electronics are recycled if possible efficiently.

In Vehicle

- Make sure your tires are always filled with air, which increases movement efficiency.
- Have regular maintenance on your vehicle to make sure that everything is working to the best performance.
- Do not warm your vehicles up as simply driving right after turning on, the ignition will warm the vehicle up just as well.
- Find alternate routes to your destination, as spending time in traffic not only wastes petrol, but will likely force you to use more heat.

Everyday

- Use products made of recycled paper, or biodegradable materials.
- When shopping, use the least amount of plastic bags if possible or use recyclable bags that can be used over again.

b Answer the following questions about the text above.

1. What is the importance of the tips mentioned in the text?
2. Where should you boil water?
3. Which consumes more water, the shower or the bath?
4. Why should you open the blinds?
5. How is the movement of the car increased?

c Decide if the statements are True or False.

1. When replacing incandescent bulbs, we can use any kind of bulbs.
2. Turn all computers and network peripherals on at day end.
3. Maintenance on the vehicle makes everything work to the best performance.
4. One of the ways of preserving energy is to use recyclable bags.

Grammar

Past Tenses

Past Simple

We use the past simple

- to talk about single past completed actions. Often the time is mentioned:
e.g. A few weeks ago, a woman called to report a robbery at her house.
- to give a series of actions in the order that they happened:
e.g. The burglar came in through the front door, picked up the woman's handbag, emptied it out and stole her purse.
- to talk about past repeated actions:
e.g. When her son got older, he often went out to visit his friends after school.
- to talk about long-term situations in the past which are no longer true:
e.g. Bill worked for the police for over 17 years.

Past Continuous

We use the past continuous:

- To provide the background scene to an action or event (usually in the past simple). We often use words like when, while and as:
e.g. He was doing his homework in his bedroom when the burglar came into the house.

Past Perfect

We use the Past Perfect

- When we are talking about the past and want to mention something that happened earlier:
e.g. His father was a composer and his grandfather had also been a musician.
Sometimes we use words like just or already.
e.g. By the time he was 17, Mozart's reputation had already begun to spread through Europe.
- With words like when, as soon as, by the time, after to show the order of events:
e.g. When Mozart was born, five of his siblings had already died.

a Mark is telling the story of how he forgot his passport. Put the verbs into the correct form.

It happened (happen) last May at the airport. A few weeks before, a group of us decided to go to Oman together for a holiday. We ¹ (wait) in the queue at passport control when suddenly I ² (realise) that I ³ (forget) my passport. ⁴ It was quite a shock. I ⁵ (hurry) to a phone and rang my parents. They ⁶ (work) in the garden, but luckily my sister ⁷ (hear) the phone. They ⁸ (find) the passport and immediately ⁹ (drive) to the airport with it. I ¹⁰ (meet) them at the information desk to take my passport. I ¹¹ (run) all the way to the plane. I was just in time. When I ¹² (get) there, the passengers ¹³ (sit) in their seats ready for take-off. When they saw me, everyone started clapping.

Reading

Learning from experience can make us stronger and more capable of doing the right things. It is a lifelong process that is not only academic but greatly experiential as well. Everything we do, observe or hear, creates an opportunity for evaluation, understanding, and creation of new ideas.

The best way to learn something is to make mistakes first. Thomas Edison, who invented light bulb, did hundreds of experiments that failed. However, he believed that it is never too late to start again. Failures and false starts are the condition of success. In fact, a surprising number of everyday objects had their beginnings in a mistake or a misunderstanding. Penicillin and even bread are all unexpected inventions. Careless lab scientist Fleming noticed penicillin by accident when he returned from two-week vacation to find that mold had developed on some of his samples and destroyed all the bacteria it touched. A tired Egyptian worker invented bread when the dough rose during his sleep.

Most of our life experiences are great opportunities to learn new skills for personal development. But many people don't take advantage of such opportunities simply because they don't have a mindset focused on learning. It is greatly different from conventional learning as there may be no teacher or mentor involved. The learner plays an active part in the learning process. It is an individual-focused learning technique for learning from experience. A common example of real learning through experience is that of botany students. While they can simply learn about the various plants and trees by reading books on the subject, they are regularly taken on trips across biodiversity parks, gardens, and forested areas for learning from observation.

The learners don't have to rely on things they hear from others or read from books but can learn based on their own experiences. The most important thing to remember is that you need to learn from your mistakes. If you don't, then there is no sense in making them. Shift your mindset and understand that there are actually no mistakes, but lessons and learning opportunities.

- A. Replacing saturated fats with unsaturated fats
- B. Drinking plenty of water
- C. Eating healthy food
- D. Swimming
- E. Eating a rich breakfast and light dinner
- F. Getting enough sleep
- G. Exercising regularly

Have you ever wondered why you always feel tired even with no hard effort? Usually the main cause is not satisfactory, but rather the unhealthy lifestyle that we all suffer from, whether in food or daily habits. Here are the most important healthy habits that will restore you a feeling of energy and vitality again.

Studies show that sleep deprivation causes many health problems like weight gain, obesity and depression. So try to keep the number of your sleep hours not less than 6 to 9 hours depending on your nature, and it is preferable to sleep early, as early night sleep is deeper than a daytime sleep.
2.
Do not forget to drink abundantly, and it is recommended to drink at least 12 cups of water in the summer and 8 cups in the winter, preferably before meals. Drinking water helps to increase the rate of burning calories and to purify the body and liver of toxins, which is reflected in the purity of the skin.
3.
Exercise for 15-30 minutes a day. Choose the sport that you prefer according to your lifestyle, such as walking, running, swimming, or exercising on electrical appliances, or aerobics at home. In addition to maintaining your weight, exercising will help you stimulate blood circulation and feel more energetic.
4.
Make sure that your diet is healthy and varied. Eat more fruits and vegetables. Try to reduce your intake of foods that contain white flour. Use salt and sugar in very small quantities and refrain from eating junk food.
5.
Fats are important for good health, yet too much of them can negatively affect weight and cardiovascular health. In general, nutritionists advise to limit the consumption of total and saturated fats. Reduce eating fats that cause high cholesterol, and replace them with healthy ones such as olive oil, avocado, and peanut butter.
6.
Never skip breakfast. Do not drink coffee immediately after you wake up. Make your breakfast varied and rich in protein. Make your dinner light and eat fruits or vegetables with a cup of yoghurt. The famous proverb says: "Eat the breakfast of kings, the lunch of princes, and the dinner of the poor."

c Read the article again and complete the sentences with a word or a phrase.

Relaxation

Relaxation strategies can be useful in reducing general levels of anxiety and fear over time. For each person there is a different set of activities and skills that help them relax. Our best strategies are to find the ones that work for us and practise them. The techniques are called mindfulness skills and are connected to meditation practices. They have been used by more and more people to regulate their emotions and calm their minds. One way to think about relaxation is that it is the absence of tension in the body's muscles. We can actually influence how anxious we feel gradually by learning to release tension in the muscles through daily exercises. This communicates calmness and safety to our body, reducing the body's need to activate the "fight or flight" response. Yoga, as a clear evidence of mindfulness, incorporates a powerful combination of mental and physical elements: breathing, stretching, meditation, and strengthening exercises. All these activities aim at improving physical and mental well-being. Many of us enjoy a change between now and then, watching candles, beaches, falling leaves, etc. Such views can drag minds into deep thinking, fleeing away from the hasty stressed world waiting behind. Sounds can also have a soothing effect on our minds. The nature can bring in us a lot of relief, while listening to its songs performed by ocean waves for instance. The most important thing is to set realistic goals in line with life aims. Remember to take one small step at a time to reach larger goals.

b As you read the text, answer the questions below.

1. How can mindfulness help people?

GrammarFuture Forms

1. To express a prediction: use either will or be going to.

- (a) According to the weather report, it will be cloudy tomorrow.
- (b) According to the weather report, it is going to be cloudy tomorrow.
- (c) Be careful! you'll hurt yourself.
- (d) Watch out! You're going to hurt yourself!

2. To express a prior plan: use only BE GOING TO.

- (e) A: Why did you buy this paint?
B: I'm going to paint my bedroom tomorrow.
- (f) I talked to Bob yesterday. He is tired of taking the bus to work. He's going to buy a car. That's what he told me.

3. To express willing: use only WILL.

- (g) A: The phone's ringing.
B: I'll get it.
- (h) A: I don't understand this problem.
B: Ask your teacher about it. She'll help you.

When the speaker is making a prediction (a statement about something s/he thinks will be true or will occur in the future), either will or be going to is possible.

There is no difference in meaning between (a) and (b).

There is no difference in meaning between (c) and (d).

When the speaker is expressing a prior plan (something the speaker intends to do in the future because in the past s/he has made a plan or decision to do it), only be going to is used.

In (e): Speaker B has made a prior plan. Last week she decided to paint her bedroom. She intends to paint it tomorrow.

In (f): The speaker knows Bob intends to buy a car.

Bob made the decision in the past, and he plans to act on this decision in the future. Will is not appropriate in (e) and (f).

In (g): Speaker B is saying "I am willing; I am happy to get the phone." He is not making a prediction. He has made no prior plan to answer the phone. He is, instead, volunteering to answer the phone and uses will to show his willingness.

In (h): Speakers B feels sure about the teacher's willingness to help. Be going to is not appropriate in (g) and (b).

4. Why did NASA launch its new programme regarding trash?

The fictional alien attack is frightening in the movies but a more terrifying reality is looming the threat of space debris. The universe is a vast place where hidden dangers are almost everywhere. Even if you consider only our solar system, there are debris, asteroid and comet threats which could devastate our planet if an impact were to occur.

Exploring space gives us an opportunity to locate these hazards in advance so that we could help to preserve our race. With some experts believing that human civilisation may not survive to the end of the century, the main goals for space exploration should be first the preservation of planet Earth as a human habitat. Space exploration helps us all to find the changes that are necessary to keep our planet healthy for our children, grandchildren, and beyond. Million pieces of debris of different sizes are estimated to be in orbit around the Earth. Although we don't see space junk in the sky, beyond the clouds and further than the eye can see, it enters low Earth orbit (LEO). Most orbital debris comprises human-generated objects, such as pieces of space craft, tiny flecks of paint from a spacecraft, parts of rockets, satellites that are no longer working, or explosions of objects in orbit flying around in space at high speeds. Most "space junk" is moving very fast and can reach speeds of 18,000 miles per hour, almost seven times faster than a bullet, and this poses a safety risk to people and property in space and on Earth.

There are no international space laws to clean up debris in our LEO. LEO is now viewed as the world's largest garbage dump, and it's expensive to remove space debris from it because it is huge, there are close to 6,000 tons of materials.

The NASA Orbital Debris Program officially began in 1979. The program looks for ways to create less orbital debris, and designs equipment to track and remove the debris already in space.

One of the ways the space industry aims to solve the debris problem is through de-orbiting - pushing this junk out of orbit and into the Earth's atmosphere where it can burn up. The most common approach, is to opt for a controlled re-entry. This solution is quite heavy and expensive, as it requires additional fuel. Space junk is no one countries' responsibility, but the responsibility of every spacefaring country. The problem of managing space debris is both an international challenge and an opportunity to preserve the space environment for future space exploration missions. We have generated a global problem that can only be solved with the help and the cooperation of all countries. The space around our planet is filled with rubbish. It's time to take out the trash!

The Atmosphere

Reading

The Depletion of the Ozone Layer

It has been observed for decades that there is an imbalance in the functioning of the ozone layer, resulting from the increase of the amount of harmful radiation that reaches the Earth.

The activities of the human beings are the main reason for what is happening. Their crimes in this field are numerous, as they synthesise substances derived from methane and other gases called chlorofluoro carbons (CFCs).

In the middle of the last century, people thought about creating a new gas for use in refrigerators, air conditioners and spray cans. This gas was supposed to be of little activity and to be non-toxic.

All these goals were achieved by synthesising methane halogen compounds, known as chlorofluoro carbons. This gas was released into the atmosphere and its percentage in the ozone layer increased. With the influence of the ultraviolet rays, the chlorofluoro carbon gases decomposed into chlorine gas, which contributes effectively to the destruction of the ozone gas, and thus the release of more ultraviolet rays towards the Earth, which led to emergence of many diseases, especially cancer.

In addition, there are many objects that destroy the ozone layer, including jet planes that fly in the stratosphere and emit large quantities of harmful gases to the ozone, such as nitrogen oxides. These planes create an imbalance of air masses, which leads to the destruction of the stratosphere, the ozone layer.

The huge amount of chlorine and fluorine gases released by rockets and spacecrafts destroys the ozone by large extent, while volcanic explosions play an essential role in the erosion of the ozone layer, as they release hydrogen chloride and hydrogen sulfide to the atmosphere. Thus, chlorine and sulfuric acid interacts with ozone in the stratosphere.

Finally, scientists suggest that the cause of the depletion of the ozone layer in the northern part of the globe is geophysical factors related to hurricanes and the solar activity.

Reflexive Pronouns usually follow the verb and indicate that the subject is both giving and receiving the action.

Reflexive pronouns are words that end in the suffix -self (in singular) and -selves (in plural).

Singular	Plural
myself	ourselves
yourself	yourselves
itself/ herself/ himself	themselves

They are applied whenever the subject and the object of the sentence are similar.

Examples of reflexive pronouns:

I washed myself.

He sent the letter himself.

She served herself in the cafeteria.

Note: John bought him a new car. (him = another person)

John bought himself a new car. (himself = John)

The most common ways in which reflexive pronouns are used:

a. as the direct object of the verb:

e.g. He hurt himself at the race.

b. as the indirect object of the verb:

e.g. She made herself a dress. (made it for herself)

c. after a preposition:

e.g. The old man was talking to himself.

d. for emphasis:

This means that the subject did the action alone. In this case, it normally follows the subject.

e.g. I myself believe that the proposal is good.

He himself set out to break the long distance flying record.

She herself prepared the nine-course meal.

Note: by + reflexive pronoun can also mean alone.

e.g. John washed the dishes by himself = (John washed the dishes alone).

a Choose the correct answer.

1. Ahmad's father bought (himself, him) a new car.
2. They managed (them, themselves) very well at the interview.
3. The building wouldn't withstand the storm (it, itself).
4. Reem made (her, herself) a promise not to eat fast food.
5. The Jones are decorating the house (himself, themselves).
6. Boys, can you make the beds (yourself, yourselves)?

b Fill in the gaps with the suitable reflexive pronoun.

1. Save your environment by planting trees
2. Students should depend on while doing the exercise.
3. The boy hurt by using that knife.
4. Faten looked at in the mirror before she left.
5. A dog sheltered in the rainy weather.

Progress Test 2

Reading

Everyone has moments of forgetfulness from time to time, especially when life gets busy. While this can be a completely normal occurrence, having a poor memory can be frustrating. Genetics plays a role in memory loss, especially in serious neurological conditions like Alzheimer's disease. However, research has shown that lifestyle has a major impact on memory too. Here are some ways to improve your memory naturally.

Eat the right things: People who regularly consume lots of added sugar may have poorer memories and lower brain volumes than those who consume less sugar. Like added sugar, refined carbohydrates lead to a spike in blood sugar levels, which can damage your brain over time and be associated with dementia, cognitive decline and reduced brain function. Fish and fish oil supplements are rich in the omega-3 fatty acids EPA and DHA. Consuming them may help improve short-term, working and episodic memory, especially in older people. Anti-inflammatory foods are great for your brain, especially berries and vegetables that are high in antioxidants. Add some cocoa to Your Diet, it is high in antioxidants that may help improve memory performance. Make sure to choose dark chocolate with 70% cacao or higher so you get a concentrated dose of antioxidants.

Take mental exercise: First, make Time for Meditation! It is relaxing and soothing, and has been found to reduce stress and pain, lower blood pressure and even improve memory. It is not just good for your body – it is also good for your brain. Second, get enough sleep! It is associated with better memory performance. Sleep helps consolidate memories. You are also likely to perform better on memory tests if you are well rested than if you're sleep deprived. Practice mindfulness! It is a mental state in which you focus on your present situation, maintaining awareness of your surroundings and feelings. It is also linked to reduced age-related cognitive decline. Train your brain! Exercising your cognitive skills by playing brain games, such as crosswords or word-recall games, is a fun and effective way to boost your memory.

Exercising your mind and body, enjoying a quality piece of chocolate and reducing the amount of added sugar in your diet are all excellent techniques. Try adding a few of these tips to your daily routine to boost your brain health and keep your memory in top condition.

Sustainable Development

The hasty development of humanity over the last decades has led to many undesired issues such as climate changes, natural disasters, wars and even socio-economic instability. Humans have negatively affected the environment, endangering the survival of our planet and the future of the coming generations. These urgent conditions have urged peoples to seek changes in their careless behaviour aiming towards more rational and efficient management of all resources. Such responsible behaviour that will ensure the long-term exploitation of resources is considered within the concept of sustainable development which emerged in the 70s and especially in the 80s of the 20th century. The concept of sustainable development has three pillars in common. The concept of socio-economic development deals with ecological hurdles. The concept of needs shows the demand for redistribution of resources to ensure the quality of life for all. The concept of future generations suggests a long-term plan to improve the quality of life for future generations. The essence of the concept of sustainable development calls upon a balance between three pillars of sustainability – environmental sustainability which focuses on preserving the quality of the environment as a necessity, social sustainability which strives to ensure human rights and equality, and economic sustainability which in turn aims to improve living standards.

Although the concept of sustainable development has undergone certain changes during the past, its essential goals have contributed to a more conscious behaviour adapted. Numerous international organisations have been involved in implementation of the concept, while it has found positive implementation locally, it has not produced significant results on a global scale. This fact proves environmental problems which, many years after the introduction of the concept, are still ongoing. Contemporary understanding of the concept of sustainable development is considered through the United Nations Millennium Development Goals focused on a complex global situation.

Meanwhile, many countries are not even close to sustainable development and the gap between peoples about it has deepened. The concept needs more than just assumptions and theories as it is a risky challenge in nature.

Read the following statements, then decide whether they are TRUE or FALSE. Correct the false ones.

1. Socio-economic instability is one of the benefits of humanity progress.
2. The clear understanding of the concept of sustainable development emerged in the early 21th century.
3. The concept of needs calls upon the equal life opportunities for all peoples.
4. Due to the fact that sustainable development has great appeal, many successes occurred internationally.
5. The gap between peoples has been bridged because of the rational behaviour.

The Importance of Wildlife

Wildlife means animal and plant life forms that humans do not interfere with. This laissez-faire plays an essential role in maintaining the natural balance of life on our planet, whose environment has been destroyed in several regions.

Wildlife plays an important role in balancing the environment. It provides stability to different processes of the nature. Wildlife and nature have been largely associated with humans for emotional and social reasons. The importance of wildlife can be categorised as ecological, economic and investigatory importance as well as conservation of biological diversities. Animals have also been highly useful to us in providing food, clothing and source of income. Our life is almost impossible without the support of wildlife. We are also a part of wildlife to make ecological balance on Earth. It plays a very crucial role in our life.

Wildlife helps in maintaining the ecological balance of nature. Killing of carnivores leads to an increase in the number of herbivores which in turn affects the forest vegetation, thus due to lack of food in the forest they come out from the forest to agricultural land and destroy our crops. This makes us know that wildlife helps in maintaining ecological balance even by being predators of each other. Animals are great predators which is the major reason for ecological development. Therefore, once the equilibrium and stability is disturbed, it leads to many problems.

By conserving wildlife, diversity in the environment can be conserved. According to some scientists, an ecosystem with more diversity is more stable.

Wildlife plays a very important role in agricultural development because animals like cows, buffaloes, etc. help in ploughing or tilling of soil. Also many microorganisms and small animals like reptiles etc. also help in increasing the fertility of soil and providing a good base for agricultural activities.

Micro-organisms are said to be the friends of farmers. For example, earthworm helps in decomposition of dead remains and then add humus to the soil. This increases soil's fertility.

b Answer the questions about the text.

1. Define wildlife?
2. What can wildlife do to our life on earth?
3. How can human beings benefit from animals?
4. How is killing of the carnivores harmful to agriculture?
5. What is the positive effect of animals on agriculture?

Verb Patterns

In English, when a verb is followed by another verb, the second verb may be an infinitive (to go), bare infinitive (go) or -ing form (going). It all depends on the first verb.

Verbs + gerunds	Verbs + infinitives
enjoy: I enjoyed living in Russia. fancy: I fancy seeing a film tonight. discuss: We discussed going on holiday together. dislike: I dislike waiting for buses. finish: We've finished preparing for the meeting.	agree: She agreed to give a presentation at the meeting. ask*: I asked to leave early / I asked him to leave early. decide: We decided to go out for dinner.

mind: I don't mind coming early.
suggest: He suggested staying at the Grand Hotel.
recommend: They recommended meeting earlier.
keep: He kept working, although he felt ill.
avoid: She avoided talking to her boss.

*help: He helped to clean the kitchen / he helped his flatmate to clean the kitchen.
plan: She plans to buy a new flat next year.
hope: I hope to pass the exam.
learn: They are learning to sing.
*want: I want to come to the party / I want him to come to the party.
*would like: I would like to see her tonight / I would like you to see her tonight.
promise: We promised not to be late tell: I told him to stop wasting money.

Note: Some verbs are followed by either the gerund or the infinitive (with 'to')

1 ⇒ No change of meaning: begin, start, continue

It began to rain = It began raining

2 ⇒ Change of meaning: remember, forget, regret / stop / try / advise, allow, permit, remember, forget, regret, forbid

Look to the future: Remember to post this letter when you get there (=don't forget to do it in the future)

Look to the past: I remember buying my first bicycle when I was 8 (= it's a memory from the past) a Put the verb into either the gerund (-ing) or the infinitive (with 'to')

1. I don't fancy (go out) tonight.
2. She helped me (carry) my suitcases.
3. Do you mind (give) me a hand?
4. I promise (help) you tomorrow.
5. She kept (talk) during the film.
6. He decided (study) biology.
7. He enjoys (read) in the evening.
8. She avoided (tell) him about her plans.
9. I'd love (come) with you.

high school MATH

Most high schools require students to take three years of math in order to graduate. Choosing which math classes to study can be one of the most challenging parts of planning high school schedule. High schools offer numerous math classes, often at varying degrees of difficulty. To create a more standardised math curriculum, six content categories should be covered in high school math classes: Algebra, Functions, Modelling, Geometry, Statistics and Probability. Since we have to specify which math concepts should be taught at which grade, the typical order of math classes in high school is: Algebra 1, Geometry, Algebra 2, Trigonometry, and Calculus.

While curriculum can vary depending on your teacher, the textbook you use, and the $$\sin 2d = 2 \sin d \cdot \cos d = \frac{2 \sin d \cos d}{1 + \tan^2 d} = \frac{2 \sin d \cos d}{1 + \cot^2 d} \quad \text{b1} \quad 3\sqrt{5} - \sqrt{80} + 3\sqrt{20}$$ level of your math class, most math classes cover the same main topics. The topics listed below serve as a guideline for the key subjects taught in each math class.

Algebra 1: Real numbers; solving, writing, and graphing linear equations; quadratic equations and functions; polynomials.

Geometry: Plane and solid geometry including constructions, formulas for measurement, and formal proofs.

Algebra 2: Continuation of the concepts taught in algebra 1, including a more in-depth study of graphing and solving equations, inequalities, and functions.

Trigonometry: Applies algebra and geometry skills to circular and periodic functions.

NOTE: Trigonometry is usually not its own class, but is often taught during algebra 2, geometry, or pre-calculus.

Pre-Calculus: Series and sequences, probability, statistics, limits, and derivatives.

Calculus: Continuation of the concepts taught in pre-calculus, with an emphasis on integration and differentiation.

$$\begin{cases} 24(2 \\ y = : \end{cases}$$

$$\begin{cases} \frac{1}{x} + \\ y = : \end{cases}$$

$$\pi = 3.14$$

$$x^2 + bx + c$$

$$x_2 = -\frac{b}{a}$$

$$x_2 = \frac{c}{a}$$

$$x - y$$

$$\sqrt{9} = 3$$

$$a^0 = 1$$

$$a^1 = a$$

$$a^m \cdot a^n = a^{(m+n)}$$

$$x_{1,2} = \frac{-b \pm \sqrt{b^2 - 4ac}}{2a} \quad a = \sqrt{a}$$

Match these words to their definitions.

- An isosceles triangle has two sides of equal length.
- A scalene triangle has all its sides of different lengths.

The different types of angles based on their measurements are:

- Acute Angle - An angle less than 90 degrees.
- Right Angle - An angle that is exactly 90 degrees.
- Obtuse Angle - An angle more than 90 degrees and less than 180 degrees.
- Straight Angle - An angle that is exactly 180 degrees.

b Choose the correct alternatives for the blanks.

1. Angles ABC and BCA are (acute, obtuse) angles.

Modals

Possibility and Probability

We use modals of possibility and probability to talk about things that we think are possible (they may or may not happen) or probable (they are very likely to happen).

These modals show how certain we are that something is true.

Very probable	must
Probable	should / ought to
Possible	may / might / could

Possible (negative)	may not / might not
Very improbable (negative)	couldn't / can't / must not Affirmative modals
He must be tired after a long drive.	The speaker is almost certain that the driver is tired.
The patient ought to be fine in the morning.	The speaker expects the patient to be fine in the morning.
The patient may have a broken arm.	The speaker is guessing that the patient has a broken arm, but doesn't know for sure.
The patient might need to stay in hospital.	The speaker is guessing that the patient needs to stay in hospital, but doesn't know for sure.
The patient could be fine tomorrow	The speaker is guessing that the patient will be fine tomorrow, but doesn't know for sure.
Negative modals
He may not have any broken bones.	The speaker is not sure if he has any broken bones.
He might not live near here.	The speaker is not sure if he lives near here.
He couldn't't be completely fine.	The speaker believes that he is probably not completely fine.
He can't be badly hurt.	The speaker believes that he is probably not badly hurt.
Modals of Possibility and Probability for Past Situations

Writing

a Read this article about Al-Kindi, one of the most famous mathematicians in the Arab World.

Al-Kindi was born in Kufa to an aristocratic family of the Kinda tribe. His father Ishaq was the governor of Kufa, and al-Kindi received his preliminary education there. He later went to complete his studies in Baghdad. Clearly, he was most influenced by the writings of Aristotle and the influence of Plato can also be seen in al-Kindi's ideas.

Al-Kindi wrote many works on arithmetic that included manuscripts on Indian numbers, the harmony of numbers, lines and multiplication with numbers, relative quantities, measuring proportion and time. He also wrote on space and time.

Unit 12

Solar System

Reading

The Impact of the Sun on Earth

The impact of the sun on Earth life depends on the heat and light the sun sends, which could not have existed without them and without the flow of its radiation in regularity and continuity. If this energy increases or decreases, this will affect the extent of its heat or coldness, with the accompanying grave danger, and the earth may become unfit for life. On the other hand, the earth's atmosphere preserves the sun's heat, allowing its rays to pass to the surface of the earth, and creating warmth. However, it doesn't help it exit again to outer space easily.

Life on Earth also depends on the influence of the sun to provide food. All living organisms, including plants and animals enter what is called the 'food chain'. This chain starts with green plants that get their food through 'photosynthesis'. In this process, the plant mixes light energy with carbon dioxide from the air with water available in the soil to get its need from food. Through these reactions, oxygen is released. Some animals may feed on these plants, which in turn will be for bigger animals. In the end, humans feed on plants and animals.

On the other hand, sunlight has its disadvantages. If its quantity increases, it causes burning of the skin, and it may cause great damage to the eye if staring at it directly. As for the weather, it is greatly affected by the sun's rays. It evaporates water from rivers, lakes and oceans, then it falls in the form of rain and snow.

a In pairs, match the underlined words that suit the following definitions.

1. living creatures
2. looking at with a steady gaze
3. the process of emitting energy in electromagnetic waves
4. the process by which plants convert light energy into chemical energy
5. turn into vapour
6. keep/ protect

4. When does sunlight become dangerous?
.....
5. Which sentence describes the article best?
.....
 - a. Sunlight has its disadvantages if its quantity increases.
 - b. Life on Earth depends on the heat and light the sun sends.
 - c. 'Food Chain' starts with green plants that get their food through 'photosynthesis'.

c In your opinion, what would happen to the Earth if it stopped revolving around the sun?

d Read the article again. Tick the true sentences. Correct the false ones.

1. Life on Earth is impossible without the sun's heat and light.
2. It doesn't matter if the sun's radiation increases or decreases.
3. In "photosynthesis", the plant mixes light with oxygen and water to get its need from food.
4. The sun's light evaporates water from rivers and oceans.

According ⁽¹⁾ the International Ecotourism Society (TIES), ecotourism can be defined as “responsible travel to natural areas ⁽²⁾ conserve the environment, sustains the well-being ⁽³⁾ the local people, and involves interpretation and education”. Its purpose may ⁽⁴⁾ to educate the traveler, to provide funds for ecological conservation, to directly benefit the economic development of local communities, or to foster respect ⁽⁵⁾ different cultures.

Ecotourism typically involves travel to destinations where flora, fauna, ⁽⁶⁾ cultural heritage are the primary attractions. It ⁽⁷⁾ intended to offer tourists an insight into the impact of human beings on the environment and to encourage a greater appreciation of our natural habitats. Therefore, in addition to evaluating environmental and cultural factors, ⁽⁸⁾ integral part of ecotourism is the promotion of recycling, energy efficiency, water conservation. Among the reasons that help understand why ecotourism has ⁽⁹⁾ growing are, it is easier to access remote ecotourism destination nowadays; thanks to cheap flights and accessible infrastructures; also there’s a greater interest ⁽¹⁰⁾ challenging and more educative tourism.

Despite the goal of protecting the environment, ecotourism can, even ⁽¹¹⁾ unintentionally, create environmental harm because Eco tourists often go to environmentally fragile areas that risk collapse or getting eroded; disturbance of wildlife, ⁽¹²⁾ removal of vegetation for plant collection, for instance, and garbage generation increases due to visitors are also likely consequences of ecotourism; Some visits ⁽¹³⁾ done in sensitive periods like during breeding or hatching periods; There are hidden impacts such as the consumption of fuel for air or road travel; there’s the risk of ecotourism turning into mass tourism with a huge impact ⁽¹⁴⁾ different levels besides environmental.

Ecotourism provides the opportunity for immersion ⁽¹⁵⁾ the natural world in an enjoyable and effective manner, resulting in greater compassion and better stewardship of the world’s remaining natural wonders.

Punctuation Rules

Full Stop (.): This is the most popular punctuation mark because you simply cannot write even a single sentence without using it. So, there are two most common uses of a full stop: to indicate the end of a sentence, or to follow an abbreviation.

Comma (,): A comma is often used to separate different ideas in a sentence. However, it has many other uses as well, and it is important to remember them as well.

Question Mark (?): A question mark, as its name suggests, needs to go at the end of every interrogative sentence instead of a full stop.

Exclamation Mark (!): An Exclamation mark added at the end of a sentence shows emphasis. Depending on the meaning of the sentence, it can indicate anger, happiness, excitement, or any other strong emotion.

Quotation Marks (" "): As their name suggests, quotation marks indicate direct quotations. You can also use them to show that a word or a phrase is being used ironically or for titles of articles, book chapters, episodes of a TV- show, etc.

Apostrophe ('): An apostrophe has two very important uses. Firstly, it can be used in contractions in place of omitted letters. Secondly, it can show possession.

Hyphen (-): Even though it looks very similar to a dash, a hyphen has very different uses. It is commonly used to create compound words.

Dash (--): There are two different dashes, the en dash and the em dash, the first being slightly shorter than the second one. The en dash is usually used to show a connection between two things, as well as a range of numbers, years, pages, etc.

Colon (:): A colon is a punctuation mark you will come across very often in different circumstances. It can introduce an example, a list, an explanation, or a quotation. Or, you can also use it to emphasize a certain point.

Semicolon (;): A semicolon is a punctuation mark that creates a longer pause than a comma but a shorter pause than a full stop. So, it can be used to create a pause between two independent clauses that are still closely related to each other.

Parentheses (()): In most cases, you will see additional information in parentheses. Usually, it can be omitted without creating any confusion for the reader.

Brackets ([]): Brackets are, in a way, similar to parentheses. However, they are mostly used in academic writing and when presenting quotes. For instance, the writer can add extra information or fix mistakes in brackets, without changing the original quotation.

Ellipsis (...): An ellipsis creates an intriguing and mysterious atmosphere in the text. In addition, it can be used to show that some letters or even words are omitted.

Slash (/): You might need to write a fraction, a measurement, or to suggest alternatives in your text. There are just three of the instances where you will have to use a slash.

Writing Process

Writing is a form of communication that allows students to put their feelings and ideas on paper, to organise their knowledge and beliefs into convincing arguments, and to convey meaning through well-constructed text. In its most advanced form, written expression can be as vivid as a work of art.

Writing process, as a classroom activity, incorporates the four basic writing stages:

Let's explore each one of them

1. Planning

Pre-writing is any type of activity that encourages learners to write. Before you start writing, consider the following things:

1. Make sure you understand the type of essay you are about to write.
2. Decide the topic you will write about and narrow it down.
3. Consider your audience.
4. List some sources that cover information about your topic.
5. Learn as much as you can about the topic you are going to write about.

The following activities will help you gather as many ideas as you can, ideas that will be used in the drafting stage.

Group Brainstorming:

- Group members share ideas about a particular topic and spontaneity is the most important factor since there are no right or wrong answers.
- All ideas are welcome in this stage.

Rapid Free Writing:

- Students write as much as they can about a topic during 1 or 2 minutes. Students write freely and quickly single words and phrases about a specific topic.

Wh- Questions:

- Students generate who, why, what, where, when and how questions about a topic. Students can gather information from different sources to answer the questions they generate.

2. Drafting

- Once enough ideas are gathered during the planning stage, the first attempt at writing is drafting.
- In this stage, authors of a piece of writing focus on writing fluently rather than focusing on accuracy or the neatness of the draft.
- Writers usually take into account the readers since that can dictate a certain style to be used.
- Before moving to the revision stage, learners usually receive feedback from instructors. This feedback can be oral or in writing.

3. Revising

Students should revise their draft based on the feedback given in the responding stage. They reexamined what was written and see how effective they were at communicating their ideas.

Revising is not only checking for language errors, it is done to improve the global content and organisation of ideas.

You can do the following things during this stage:

1. Rearrange words, sentences or paragraphs.
2. Take out or add parts.
3. Do more research if you think you need to
4. Replace overused words.
5. Read your text aloud to make sure it flows smoothly.

4. Editing

A good writer must learn how to evaluate their own language through checking their own text looking for errors.

Learners can also interchange text with peers, it is common for writers to ask friends and colleagues to check texts for spelling, etc.

Don't submit your writing before checking these points:

1. Correct Spelling
2. Capitalisation
3. Punctuation
4. Unclear words that need to be changed
5. Appropriate style or formatting.

a. How to write a paragraph

1. Introduction / Topic Sentence: a paragraph has a TOPIC SENTENCE to answer directly the question or prompt.

2. Support or explanation: it USUALLY has 3-5 sentences to explain, give reasons for, tell more about, or prove your answer.

3. Conclusion: it has a concluding sentence "clincher" to finish the paragraph.

Remember

- A paragraph is ABOUT 1 SUBJECT.
- A paragraph is INDENTED.

b. How to write an article about a famous building

When we want to write an article about a famous building, we follow these tips:

1. In the introduction, we mention what type of building it is, its location and its special features.

2. In the body, we give historical facts about the building (who designed it, when it was built, etc.). Then we describe the exterior and the interior of the building.

3. In the conclusion, we write general remarks about the building and a recommendation to visitors.

4. We use past tenses to write about historical facts and present tenses to describe the building, its location, etc.

Appendix IV

How to Prepare a Presentation

An effective presentation is more than just standing up and giving information. A presenter must consider how best to communicate the information to the audience. Use these tips to create a presentation that is both informative and interesting:

1. Organize your thoughts. Start with an outline and develop good transitions between sections.
2. Have a strong opening. Why should the audience listen to you? One good way to get their attention is to start with a question, whether or not you expect an answer.
3. Define terms early. If you are using terms that may be new to the audience, introduce them early in your presentation. Once audience gets lost in unfamiliar terminology, it is extremely difficult to get them back on track.
4. Finish with a bang. Find one or two sentences that sum up the importance of your research. How is the world better off as a result of what you have done?
5. Design PowerPoint slides to introduce important information. Consider doing a presentation without PowerPoint. Then consider which points you cannot make without slides. Create only those slides that are necessary to improve your communication with the audience.
6. Time yourself. Do not wait until the last minute to time your presentation. You only have 5 minutes to speak, so you want to know, as soon as possible, if you are close to that limit.
7. Create effective notes for yourself. Have notes that you can read. Do not write out your entire talk; use an outline or other brief reminders of what you want to say. Make sure the text on slides is large enough that you can read it from a distance.
8. Practice, practice, practice. The more you practice your presentation, the more comfortable you will be in front of the audience. Practice in front of a friend or two and ask for their feedback. Record yourself and listen to it critically. Make it better and do it again.
